

Business or Government Benefits - Additional Terms

Welcome to the Business or Government Benefits - Additional Terms Home Page.

In accordance with your AT&T Wireless Customer Agreement, you may be eligible for certain additional rate plans, programs or other services ("Additional Services") through a business or government customer's agreement with us ("Qualified Agreement"). Additional Services are provided to you solely as a result of the corresponding Qualified Agreement and may be modified or terminated without notice. Additional Services are subject to the terms of your Wireless Customer Agreement and the additional terms provided in the corresponding product brochure or brief set forth below ("Additional Terms"). If you activate and/or use an Additional Service, the corresponding Additional Terms are incorporated into your Wireless Customer Agreement by reference.

You can print any of the documents available below. NOTE: The documents are subject to change, so we recommend you check back frequently for the most up to date information.

Brochures for Additional Plans available to Subscriber Paid Users of Primary User Public Safety Entities that have a Qualified Agreement for the AT&T FirstNet Solution:

FirstNet Mobile – Responder Plans & FirstNet Mobile – Responder Unlimited Plans

AT&T Enhanced Push-to-Talk \(FirstNet First Responders\) feature

Brochures/Product Briefs for Additional Services available to Individual Responsibility Users

("IRUs"):

AT&T Enhanced Push-to-Talk feature

NOTE: IRUs are also referred to as AT&T Signature customers. Other Additional Services may be available to certain IRUs under the terms of their employer's Qualified Agreement with AT&T. Check with your administrator or telecommunications manager ("TCM") to determine if other Additional Services are available to you. If other Additional Services are available to you and you choose to subscribe to them, the terms and conditions for the other Additional Services provided to you by your TCM will be incorporated into your Wireless Customer Agreement by reference